

Which Heartpiece Is Calling You?

Not sure where to begin?
Let's find the portrait that speaks to your season.

What's calling you to this artwork right now?

I just want something quiet and grounding for myself

I'm ready to feel more seen, like a piece that mirrors my inner and outer world

I want to honour something big: healing, legacy, a chapter I've walked through

How much of your story do you want woven in?

Just a feeling or a word—I don't need to share too much

A meaningful photo and a moment I'll never forget

Several stories, symbols, and memories that shaped me

What kind of energy do you want this piece to hold?

Calming, subtle, like a visual exhale

Honest, grounded, like looking at myself with kind eyes

Deep, layered, like an altar to all I've walked through

How do you hope to interact with this piece?

A quiet corner, a reminder just for me

Hung where I can see myself daily, maybe even share with others

Passed down, treasured, a sacred heirloom

What Your Answers Might Point To

Mostly First Options

Whispers in Colour

For souls seeking softness, simplicity, and emotional clarity.

Mostly Second Options

Worn and Worthy

For those who want to see their story reflected in form, with heart and honest light.

Mostly Third Options

Embers and Echoes

For those honouring legacy, healing, or rebirth, and ready for something deeply custom.

Still not sure?

Simply send me an email at coffeestainedcanvases@gmail.com and we can work it out together!

In Kindness and Colour
Amy Stoltenberg xx